"CHINA MAIL" CENSUS
COMPETITION.

A census of the population of Hongkong is to be taken on May 20th, and in order that our readers may test their skill in estimating the growth of the population since the last census the China Mail is promoting a competition under three heads, asking its subscribers to predict the numbers of—(1) The total civil population; (2)
Chinese population; (3) European and American population. We have, for the guidance of competitors, given the figures for the last two censuses. All competitors have to do is to cut out the coupons, fill in their estimate and forward them to our office, with the words "China Mail Competition"
in the top left-hand corner of the envelope.
Competitors may send in as many coupons as they desire. A prize will be given for the most correct estimate under each head.
In the case of a tie the estimate first opened will be adjudged the winner.

No. 1.—TOTAL CIVIL POPULATION OF HONGKONG.

I predict that the total civil population of the Colony on May 20th, 1911, will be

Name

Address

N.B.—The last complete census of the Colony was taken in 1901, when the total civil population was officially returned at 283,905. In 1906 a partial census was taken, being confined to the original Colony of Hongkong and that part of the New Territory which lies south of the Kowloon range of hills. This partial census showed a total civil population of 319,803, but it should be pointed out that the portion of the New Territory not included in this census possessed a population of 86,011 in 1901.

No. 2.—TOTAL CHINESE POPULATION OF HONGKONG.

I predict that the total Chinese population of the Colony on May 20th, 1911, will be

Name

Address

N.B.—In November, 1906, a partial census was taken, this being confined to the original Colony of Hongkong and that part of the New Territory which lies south of the Kowloon range of hills. This partial census gave the total Chinese population (land and floating) as 307,388, but it should be borne in mind that the portion of the New Territory not included in this partial census possessed a population of 86,011 in 1901, the year when the last full census was taken. The total Chinese population for the whole Colony in 1901 was 274,543.

No. 3.—TOTAL EUROPEAN AND AMERICAN POPULATION OF HONGKONG.

I predict that the total European and American population of the Colony (resident and mercantile marine) on May 20th, 1911, will be

Name

Address

N.B.—The 1901 census gave the European and American population of the Colony as 6,421. At a census taken in 1906 the figure was 8,306.

CHINA ASSOCIATION OF LONDON.

The Annual Meeting.

London, April 23.
Mr F. Anderson presided this afternoon at the annual meeting of the China Association, held at the offices of the P. and O. Company in Leadenhall Street. There was a good attendance of members, including Sir Walter Hillier, Sir Charles Hodgson, Sir Alfred Dunt, Dr James Johnson, Capt. C. V. Lloyd, Messrs F. Salinger, J. C. Hanson, J. H. Scott, Warren-Smith, E. A. Probst, R. Little, R. Dingle, Hurace Harwood, E. Cousins, F. Corcoran, J. C. Bois, G. B. Dodwell, Gersham Stewart, D. C. Rutlandford, J. R. Michael, W. W. Dickinson, A. Zimmerman, A. G. Wood, W. C. Ward, J. Buchanan, Byron Brown, A. E. Hipsley, George Jamieson, and T. H. Whitehead.

In proposing the adoption of the report and balance sheet, the Chairman gave a lengthy review of the situation and the work of the past year. Critic, he declared, could not accuse them of inactivity when they saw the bulky record of their doings, or of being lax in bringing to the notice of the government, the chambers of commerce, and the press, the more important questions affecting British interests. On some subjects they had not been able to get His Majesty's Government to see with them eye to eye, but in other cases the efforts they had made, alone or in conjunction with the more important chambers of commerce in this country, had been met with some measure of success. In the complicated problems which were in the course of solution in the Far East many important decisions yet remained to be taken, and they would continue in the future as in the past to urge upon His Majesty's Government the views of those who, having responsibilities in the Far East, were actively interested in its prosperity—those who were engaged in conducting the very large British trade which was still being carried on with China and Japan and which was still a British interest almost of the first magnitude. Their aim in the past and in the present was to strengthen the hands of those who were responsible for the maintenance of British interests (Applause.)

Reviewing the work done, the Chairman mentioned communications with the government on such diverse subjects as the Japanese Treaty, Korean Customs, Railway Extension in Manchuria, the Opium question, the proposed opium conference at the Hague, Currency reform, Whampoa, Conservancy, Shanghai Settlement Extension, Postal Agencies in China, Trade Marks, Registration of British Limited Liability companies at Shanghai, and registration of British shipping at Shanghai.

As to the Japanese treaty, though it was an improvement on the one originally intended, it was more than probable that the effect would be to curtail many important branches of British trade and transfer production from this country to Japan. One theoretical effect of the high scale of duties about to be levied on imports into Japan should be that Japanese manufacturers would be handicapped in competition in the neutral Chinese market, but their experience in the past had shown them that this was very unlikely to be the effect in practice. It was not improbable that one result of the new Treaty would be that the finer qualities of manufactures would in future be made in Japan to the exclusion of English products, and that they would experience the same competition in China and Korea which India had met with there in the past. It would be interesting to see if, through the action of her tariff, Japan would be able to establish industries which would compete successfully in China with England, India, and America in textiles, whilst she was absolutely dependent on India and America for the main supply of her raw materials. It was true she got about 300,000 bales of cotton per annum from China but she had to pay export duty on that. Perhaps it would be wiser to wait and see if the new Treaty "will facilitate and extend the commercial relations between the two countries," to quote the words of the preamble, before they congratulated themselves upon the success of their government in negotiating this Treaty.

At the last moment his attention had been called to the fact that not only were the duties enormously increased, but by a clause in the appendix the Customs officials "may count the threads in tissues which have a design or border wherever they happen to be most numerous, whether in the design or border or in the body of the tissue." In practice this border was nearly always of finer texture than the body of the tissue. It was clear therefore that if they appraised the duty by the texture of the border they would find what was quickly called the body of the tissue—or in other words the piece—would come under a higher denomination than was warranted by its quality. He did not know if this was clever diplomacy on the part of the Japanese negotiators. It seemed a ploy that they should have agreed to such a clause on the British side, as it looked like piling on the agony. To speak plainly and frankly they were disappointed with the Treaty (Heart Heart). No change was to be made in the Korean customs for ten years, and for that decision they were thankful for the time being.

He mentioned persistent rumors that arrangements under which the trade of Manchuria was carried on through Dairen militated against foreign trade other than the Japanese. If those reports were borne out by the facts they hoped the Japanese government would be willing to take the necessary steps to carry out the spirit as well as the letter of Treaty engagements.

Having touched on the difficulties confronting Chinese statesmen in settling the payment. But, the Socialistic tail of the Government evidently controls its head; hence the new departure.

Of course, the advent of the Labour element into the House of Commons, is largely responsible for the proposal for the payment of members. While we agree that to many men in this section of the people's representatives the £400 a year will prove very welcome, still we cannot say that we see the absolute necessity for burdening the State with this permanent load upon revenue. Though it has been declared illegal for Trades Unions to apply their funds to Parliamentary representation, there are many sympathisers with the Labour movement who would be prepared to help financially any scheme to ensure adequate representation of its interests in the House, while even among the Liberal ranks there are men who have no need of a State salary but who nevertheless hold views which would secure for the working classes a fair consideration of their standpoint.

This question of the payment of members is by no means new to the House of Commons, for over 40 years ago Mr PETER TAYLOR moved for leave to bring in a Bill making such a provision. Mr GLADSTONE was in power, and how far modern Liberalism has drifted from its old ideals may be gathered when it is pointed out that the vote was then refused by 211 to 24. The present Ministry in its early days committed itself to an academic resolution declaring that payment was desirable, but until now that is as far as it has gone, though of late there have been numerous evidences that the Government has had the scheme on its official programme. The chief objection to the change is not the amount of money which it will involve, though we fear this will have a tendency to increase as the years roll on, but, as a newspaper recently pointed out, it will tend to lower the whole tone of English Parliamentary life and introduce a most pernicious element of political professionalism. The Imperial Parliament has up to now held a unique position among National Assemblies not only in point of age as "the Mother of Parliaments," but in the matter of prestige and of a lofty dignity which is all its own and raises it—once can say so without fear of being charged with insularity or overweening national pride—above all Parliaments. But with the new order of things it is to be feared that the type of man who has been proud to pay his way to represent his city or his county will in time give way to a class of politicians whose object in public life will be to make a living out of politics. The House will lose its distinction; the men whose characters are above suspicion, whose motives are patriotic and worthy, will probably be elbowed out by carpet-baggers of a dangerously self-seeking kind. We are much afraid that the innovation, inevitable as it seems with the present Ministry in office, will prove a fatal blow to an Assembly of which every subject of the Empire has in the past had good reason to be proud.

For some time past the Hongkong Golf Club has been considering a scheme of laying out an extensive golf course in the New Territories. Recently the British Government presented to Portugal draft proposals for the new Anglo-Portuguese Treaty of Commerce. Those negotiations commenced a long time before the revolution, but have only lately been resumed at Lisbon between the Republican Government and Sir F. Villiers, the British Minister. The negotiations are (Reuters' Agency understands) in an advanced stage, and their conclusion may be expected within a few weeks. In the meantime Portugal has concluded a commercial modus vivendi with France, and one with Italy has also been prepared and will be signed in a few days.

The order which was placed recently by the Wallace Corporation Committee with a German firm for 11,750 presentation mugs has been cancelled by the committee. At a special meeting it has been decided to purchase English goods. A statement issued to the Press contains the following explanation: "When the committee came to the decision to accept an offer of mugs of German manufacture an important factor in the case was that delivery of the English cups offered at the same price could not be definitely guaranteed, and failure in that respect would have been deplorable. Further, the pattern of the English cup submitted was considered inferior. Since then offers have been received from other firms to supply and deliver English cups within the prescribed period, and of designs not open to objection. Had this information been available in the first instance, preference would undoubtedly have been given to articles of British manufacture."

FOREIGN OFFENDERS.

Hon. Attorney General moved the first reading of a Bill entitled An Ordinance to amend the Foreign Offenders' Detention Ordinance, 1872.

Hon. Colonial Secretary seconded and the bill was read a first time.

A memorandum attached to the Bill says:—Ordinance No. 1 of 1872 permits, the Governor to warrant the temporary detention of subjects of Foreign Governments who, having been accused or convicted of crimes committed in China, are brought within the Colony in course of transmission to their own country for trial or punishment. Owing to the growth of consular jurisdiction such persons are tried in their Consular Courts in China more often than in their own country and it is as important to detain prisoners being transmitted East as it is to detain prisoners being transmitted West, the amendments are made in the preamble and in section 3 of the principal Ordinance.

Moreover as the principal Ordinance is not an extradition Ordinance but an Ordinance which authorises the detention of prisoners already in lawful custody when, in course of transmission, they are brought to the Colony, sub-section (4) of section 5, which is based on extradition precedents, seems unnecessary and His Honour the Chief Justice, who is now engaged in the revision of the Ordinances, has advised its repeal.

The amendment to section 6 is consequential on the amendment to section 5.

FOOD AND DRUGS.

Hon. Attorney General moved the second reading of a Bill entitled An Ordinance to amend the Sale of Food and Drugs Ordinance, 1896.

Hon. Colonial Secretary seconded and the bill was read a second time.

Hon. Mr Pollock said it was unnecessary that such a Bill should come into operation immediately as an offence could be committed to-morrow and suggested that a clause be inserted fixing a date when the Bill would come into operation.

His Excellency suggested the postponement of the committee stage until next Thursday.

ELECTRICITY SUPPLY.

Hon. Attorney General moved the third reading of a Bill entitled An Ordinance for regulating the supply of electricity for lighting and other purposes within the Colony of Hongkong and its dependencies.

THE MILITARY CONTRIBUTION.

At the meeting of the Legislative Council this afternoon the Hon. Mr Montagu Ede asked the following question standing in his name:—With reference to the remarks of the Honourable Mr Shade in the debate of the 8th October, 1908, will the Government lay upon the table some papers embodying the views and calculations of His Excellency the Governor upon the subject of the military contribution?

The Colonial Secretary replied as follows:—The views and calculations of His Excellency the Governor regarding the military contribution, to which reference is made, were communicated by the Governor to the Secretary of State in a despatch dated the 26th October, 1909. In reply His Excellency was informed by Lord Cromer in a despatch dated the 17th December, 1909, that, should the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury agree to the proposal of the Secretary of State for the Colonies for the appointment of an interdepartmental committee to consider the question of military contribution, His Excellency's views would receive the most careful consideration. Mr Harcourt, to whom reference has been made by telegram, deprecates the publication of His Excellency's despatches at the present moment while negotiations between the Colonial Office and the Imperial Treasury are still pending.

THE BRAVE REWARDED.

It appears that when the trouble arose outside of the city of Fatsan a fortnight ago, some of the Imperial soldiers were killed. The Viceroy has now advised the Colonel of the regiment which was engaged to seek out the names of the slain and the number of their families, also to inquire what deeds of prowess were done by the living, and thereupon suitable gifts and rewards are to be given to them, or to the families of the deceased. The Viceroy in his official despatch, informing the local military authorities of this decision, also states that he has already advised the Provincial Treasurer of his plan, and so the Colonel has only to present the case to the Treasurer and the rewards will be given. The Chinese are usually generous in giving rewards on these occasions, while it is well-known that when ever there is trouble and certain persons are supposed to be dangerous to the State, rewards are offered to those who will bring in their persons or their heads. This seems to us a rather barbarous custom; on other hand, it is to be commended that, when soldiers have fallen in battle, the officials reward their families at once, without any delays, as has now been decided upon in regard to those killed at Fatsan.

"THE FOLLIES."

An Entertaining Performance.

Under the past master in the art of entertaining, Mr Henry Dallas, "The Follies," who were so much appreciated when they were in Hongkong recently, are now on their return visit to the Colony and opened before a good attendance at the Theatre Royal on Wednesday night. The company has lost none of its lustre and attraction so that the majority of the members were most enthusiastically received. In particular Miss Elsie Redfern had a rousing reception when she rose to sing "My Moon," at the conclusion of which she had to be obliged with two encores. Mr Clifton Yates followed with "Glorious Devon" and he, too, was accorded no less flattering ovation. Encores were numerous and "The Follies" acquitted themselves most creditably and materially enhanced their already high reputation in Hongkong. The company play for three nights more and it behoves everyone to see and hear them before they finally leave our shores.

Extensive improvements are to be carried out at Colombo. The chief features of the scheme are:—(1) A reclamation from the sea in order to provide additional warehouse accommodation; (2) The quarrying of the sea face, to the extent of 850 feet, in place of the existing timber staging; (3) The extension of the two export jetties, and the Prince of Wales' jetty.

THE CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

PRISONER'S PUNISHMENT FOR RETURNING.

Wong Chuk alia Choi Ting was placed in the dock at the Criminal Sessions, before the Chief Justice Sir Francis Pigott, at the Supreme Court this morning, on a charge of disobeying an order of banishment.

Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster, Acting Attorney General, appeared to prosecute on behalf of the Crown, instructed by Mr. F. B. L. Bowley, Crown Solicitor.

Defendant pleaded guilty and said he had come down for something. Mr. Alabaster said that such cases were usually dealt with at the magistracy if prisoner pleaded guilty but as he had not pleaded guilty he appeared before his Lordship. Prisoner persisted in the defence and had done it about six times. He had a passion for returning from banishment.

A sentence of one year's imprisonment was imposed.

CHILDREN ENTICED TO KIDNAPING.

Ng Yuk was also charged with kidnapping, before the Chief Justice Sir Francis Pigott.

The following were sworn in as jurors:—E. Jacobs, foreman; W. Jolly, G. E. L. Harris, S. A. Ismail, A. F. B. S. Netto, J. Hyde and J. H. Seth.

Mr. Alabaster said that prisoner was charged with kidnapping two children under the age of 14 years. The children went out on the morning of the 29th ult. to school and did not return for tuition. After the fifth hour the schoolmistress sent down to their mother to find out the reason why the children did not return to school. The matter was then reported to the police. The children would tell them that on the day in question prisoner, and a woman not in custody, enticed them to go on board a steamer on the pretence that they were going to a theatre. Instead they went to Kowloon in Chinese territory where they were afterwards recovered by their mother. Prisoner in her statement before the Magistrate admitted being on board the steamer when the children were on board which was merely a coincidence. She knew nothing about them.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty and his Lordship sentenced prisoner to five years' imprisonment with hard labour.

ALLEGED LARCENY FROM A GODOWN.

Three men, Chuk Fak, Hing Chan and Lam Tsung, were charged with larceny from a godown.

Mr. Alabaster said prisoners were charged with breaking and entering No. 9, Hillier Street, and stealing 32 boxes of tin plates. A fiki of the Twei Lee metal store, to whom the godown belonged, duly locked the godown and about an hour afterwards the owners received information which caused them to proceed to the godown when they found prisoners and another man, who escaped, removing the plates. Prisoners said they were engaged by another man and were lawfully hired for the job.

Evidence was called and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty and his Lordship discharged prisoners.

THE DETENTION OF A CHILD.

Lam I, another old woman, was also charged with detaining a child against the will of her guardian.

Mr. Alabaster said the child was 11 years of age and lived with her aunt in Canton. In the middle of April the child was sitting in the house when prisoner came in and asked the child to go out with her to see things. Instead the child was brought to Hongkong and detained. When charged prisoner said the child had been given to her by the child's mother but it was doubtful whom she meant as the mother was dead.

Evidence was called. The jury returned a verdict of guilty and his Lordship sentenced prisoner to three years' imprisonment with hard labour.

OLD WOMAN SENTENCED FOR KIDNAPING.

Before Mr. Justice Gompertz, at the Criminal Sessions this morning, a woman named So Sang was charged with kidnapping and harbouring.

Sir Henry Berkeley, K.C., appeared to prosecute on behalf of the Crown, instructed by Mr. H. L. Denney, Jr. from the Office of the Crown Solicitor.

The following were sworn in as jurors:—R. C. Graf, foreman; G. Lee, F. P. Gutierrez, F. J. Fischer, A. C. Logan, K. A. Moodie, and E. M. Hazeland. The name of S. D. Hickie was called but there was no appearance.

Sir Henry Berkeley said that it appeared that the child was in the custody of a woman when one morning a servant living in the same house enticed the child to go into the street by telling her that her father was outside and wanted to see her. The child went out but as she did not see her father about the child asked where he was, when she was told that he was further up the street. The child was enticed away and was handed over to prisoner who took her away to a house where she had engaged a sleeping place. It was here that the child was found by the police some three or four days afterwards. Prisoner's defence was that she met the servant by accident in the street when the latter told her the child was her niece and she asked prisoner to take care of her.

Evidence was called.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty on both counts and his Lordship sentenced prisoner to five years' imprisonment with hard labour on each count to run concurrently.

His Lordship said that the crime was a very common one in the colony.

Len Sze, a woman, was also charged with kidnapping.

THE FACTS WERE SIMILAR TO THE PREVIOUS CASE, PRISONER BEING THE SERVANT.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty and his Lordship sentenced prisoner to five years' imprisonment with hard labour.

ALLEGED FORGED ORDER.

Lam Kam Fat was charged with forgery, before Mr. Justice Gompertz and the same jury as in the previous case.

Sir Henry Berkeley said that prisoner was charged with forging a delivery order on the Yuen On godown from the Kwong Cheong Loan firm by which he obtained 200 bags of damaged white rice. Prisoner was successful in obtaining the goods as the Kwong Cheong Loan firm had bought 405 bags and on two occasions they had taken 100 bags each time, so that when prisoner appeared with the forged delivery order and a number of coolies the remaining 200 bags were handed over to him.

Evidence was called.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty of uttering a forged order and his Lordship imposed a sentence of five years' imprisonment with hard labour.

CHILD STEALING.

An elderly woman named Wong Si was indicted before Mr. Justice Gompertz and a jury for unlawfully detaining a Chinese girl of 13 years on April 19th.

Sir Henry Berkeley, K.C., instructed by Mr. H. L. Denney, Jr. appeared on behalf of the Crown, and prisoner was undefended.

Prisoner denied her guilt and stated that the child was handed her by its mother.

Sir Henry Berkeley said this was an offence which practically amounted to child-stealing. The child belonged to Chinese parents living in Canton, and the evidence would show that on April 19th she was sent out by her mother to buy biscuits and never came back. Subsequently the child was found in Hongkong under the control of prisoner, who stated that she was given the child by its mother. However, the mother would state that she certainly did not give prisoner the child, and that statement would be borne out by the father. There was little doubt but that this was another of those cases of child stealing for the purpose of selling or otherwise unlawfully disposing of the child.

Witnesses were then called.

The jury found prisoner guilty and she was sent to prison for five years.

A MOTION TO APPEAL.

An appeal case between Harrison Midwood and W. G. V. Robinson and the Robinson Piano Co., Ltd., was mentioned before the Chief Justice, Sir Francis Pigott, and Mr. Justice Gompertz, sitting as a Full Court, at the Supreme Court to-day.

The motion was that so much of the order, made by the Chief Justice in Chambers, as ordered that plaintiff should not be required to give security for costs to be incurred in connection with the proposed commission to take evidence in England, might be varied and that so much of the said order as ordered or directed that plaintiff do execute to the Registrar a blank transfer of the shares, held by plaintiff in the defendant company, as security for the sum of $3,700, the amount of the additional security excluding the costs of the said motion, ordered by the order to be furnished by plaintiff, be varied and that it might be ordered that plaintiff do furnish security for costs of the motion and that the amount thereof be returned to the Registrar for his report and that it might be further ordered that plaintiff do furnish cash security or further and better security than the said shares in the defendant company, including the amount of the costs in the motion as fixed by the Registrar, and that in the meantime and until such further security be given all proceedings in the action by plaintiff be stayed.

Hon. Mr. H. E. Pollock, K.C., instructed by Mr. E. B. Hind, formally mentioned the case. Mr. Pollock said this was the day within which the appeal had to be mentioned. He did so because the order was peculiarly worded.

His Lordship pointed out that the order stated within fourteen days or as soon after as convenient to the court. Such points would have to be strictly adhered to in order to get the practice proper.

Mr. Pollock said it would be of great assistance to the Bar if it were so.

The matter was referred to Chambers when a day will be fixed.

IN THE COURTS.

Lai Shau for committing forgery was this afternoon, at the Criminal Sessions, sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment.

Three months' imprisonment, four hours' stocks and 24 strokes with the birch was the sentence meted out by Mr. F. A. Hazeland to a Chinese youth for snatching a gold hair-pin from a native visitor from Shanghai.

A Chinaman went into a restaurant in Connaught Road early this morning and walked off with a roll of silk to which he took a fancy. Two months' imprisonment and six hours' stocks will help him to ruminate on the error of his ways.

A Chinaman was yesterday committed for trial on a charge of highway robbery. The allegation is that he and another man held up a little girl of 11 years, one held her by the throat and the other wrenched her bag from her arms.

THE COLONY'S FINANCES.

No New Taxation Expected.

At a meeting of the Legislative Council this afternoon His Excellency the Governor dealt exhaustively with the financial statement of the year which was laid on the table.

His Excellency said that that paper was, in his opinion, the most important document which was laid on the table during the year. It had always been a matter of surprise to him that while they discussed the Estimates which received the fullest debate and excited the keenest interest, little or nothing was known of the financial returns for the year last completed. He hoped that the innovation which he was making for the information of the Council would have the approval of honourable members. He would content himself with speaking as to the revenue realized but if members desired information regarding the expenditure it would be dealt with when the Appropriation Bill came before them during the year. The statement appeared to him to be a highly satisfactory one. They would see that under almost all heads of revenue there was an increase, and particularly under the heads which concerned trade and industry in the Colony, which they might take to be an indication of the increase of prosperity and increase of business in the Colony. Under light duties, both special and ordinary, there was $9,107 over the estimate, which was an indication of the prosperity in shipping circles.

The total realized from licences and internal revenue was $140,431 under the estimate and it was an increase of $23,295 over last year. Two of the largest items were for company registration, $9,274, and stamp duties, $52,836. The total liquor duties were two lakhs, or $212,212 under the estimate which were realized. They could not compare the results of the liquor duties for 1909 because they were not initiated until the close of that year. But if they took the last three months of the year there was a proportionate increase of $30,000. It was perhaps not fair to say that the increase for liquor showed the prosperity of the Colony but it was due to shrinkage in stock. Under the head "Fees of Court" the total revenue realized showed an increase of $47,240 and $99,946 over last year. The general items of increased revenue that had been provided for registration of companies which was over $14,179, and this meant an increase of 318 per cent or $12,823 over the previous year, ground lease and deeds showed $9,259 over the estimate or $9,872 over the previous year and had therefore reached a higher total than any year since 1905. Apart from these figures which showed increase of trade and business, it was always considered that the land revenues and sales formed an independent check as to the prosperity of the Colony. They were $21,085 over the estimate or $6,015 over last year. The land sales were nearly double that of 1909; the total realized revenue was $52,072 over the estimate and an increase of $37,903 over the corresponding revenue of 1909.

It included $96,310 which was the amount given by the Imperial Government for the opium contribution but it did not include a sum of $37,000 for the postal agencies in China which sum would be credited during the present year. The Harbour Master's report, which he regretted could not be read by him, showed an increase of $17,897 results or 1,010,671 tons and that was the highest ever attained in the Colony. These figures spoke for themselves and there was also the opinion from outside such as the statement of the chairman of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank in the annual report, a corporation which would be best able to judge trade in the Far East. His remarks were endorsed by the chairman of the Chartered Bank at the annual meeting in London, and he had also private opinion that the demand for property was increasing. His speech was somewhat like the chairman's of a company who would up by declaring a considerable dividend. He had no dividend to declare and he regretted that he had no remission of taxation but as they were all shareholders in the progress and prosperity of the Colony it was good to look over their balance sheet and to take comfort that they were at the end of their difficulties and that the finances of the Colony had been put on a satisfactory footing so that there would be no demand for increased taxation for some time to come. He believed that such knowledge would produce confidence in the Colony which would be more likely for the good of the Colony and help trade than continued pessimism.
